A National Business Group on Health® Awards Program

15th ANNUAL AWARDS
Excellence in Health and Well-Being

Fidelity applauds employers who have prioritized the health and well-being of their employees. We understand how important it is to help employees across all areas of well-being — health, money, life and work. Learn how Fidelity can help — www.fidelityworkplace.com
It is my honor to welcome you to the 15th Best Employers Award Ceremony!

Congratulations to this year’s Best Employers: Excellence in Health & Well-being and Global Distinction award winners. For 15 years the Best Employers award program has recognized the outstanding achievements of companies that prioritize health & well-being for their employees and families. Over 180 U.S. based corporations have been honored for comprehensive and innovative initiatives to engage employees and positively impact their health and well-being. Since inception, the goal of these awards has been consistent: to promote evidence-based strategies, share best practices and energize the corporate health, well-being and productivity landscape.

The Global Distinction award, now in its ninth year, recognizes companies addressing the health and well-being of their global workforce with purpose and passion. We are pleased to honor these companies for providing the tools and resources to improve the physical health, emotional health, financial security, social connectedness, community involvement and job satisfaction of employees and family members in select locations worldwide.

We extend our sincere thanks to our Institute members, judges, current and previous applicants and award ceremony sponsors for their role in making this program a showcase of best practices and innovations in workforce well-being.

ABOUT THE
Best Employers
EXCELLENCE IN HEALTH & WELL-BEING AWARDS

The Best Employers: Excellence in Health & Well-being awards recognize companies for their innovative and comprehensive approaches to employee, family, and community health and well-being.

The objectives of the Best Employers: Excellence in Health & Well-being and Global Distinction awards are to:

- Promote external and internal recognition of effective initiatives and best practices; and
- Provide a forum for sharing and comparing solutions, outcomes and success strategies.

Award winners are companies with a holistic well-being strategy that improves employee health and productivity and business performance.

The application criteria incorporates well-being contributors within the following areas:

- Community Involvement
- Financial Security
- Emotional Health
- Social Connectedness

Awards are given at the Platinum, Gold and Silver levels:

Platinum: Awarded to organizations who have recognized a connection between workforce well-being and key business outcomes and implemented a strategy with demonstrated results across several dimensions of well-being.

Gold: Awarded to organizations with a strong commitment to holistic well-being and related metrics.

Silver: Awarded to organizations with emerging well-being strategies and metrics, often with a strong focus on physical health. The silver level recognizes the achievements of companies in transition to a broader well-being approach.

ABOUT GLOBAL DISTINCTION

The Best Employers: Excellence in Health & Well-being® and Global Distinction awards honors innovative, established, comprehensive and culturally-aware workforce initiatives that address well-being holistically including: physical health, emotional health, financial security, social connectedness, community involvement and job satisfaction.

Companies apply for one country of their choosing and are recognized for initiatives at the corporate level in addition to in-country strategic planning, benefits and programming.

AbbVie Vitality is AbbVie’s approach to employee well-being. It’s about sustaining healthy behaviors, so each person can be their best inside and outside the workplace. Vitality encompasses local and global events, programs, resources and tools for work-life effectiveness; preventive health; fitness; nutrition; and financial education. Focused on the “whole self,” Vitality empowers employees across the globe to achieve its four pillars: balanced lives, active bodies, fulfilled selves and healthy minds. The Principles, launched in early 2019, reinforce this philosophy. The Transforming Lives principle is the commitment to make decisions based on AbbVie’s deep compassion for people, delivering a lasting impact to patients, their families, employees and the community. AbbVie is a global, research-driven biopharmaceutical company committed to developing innovative advanced therapies for some of the world’s most complex and critical conditions. In more than 75 countries, AbbVie employees are working to advance health solutions for people around the world.

AECOM AECOM, one of the world’s largest infrastructure firms, makes well-being a core part of how it does business. With 87,000 employees, AECOM is committed to supporting its global workforce, their families and the communities it serves. Well-Being at AECOM encourages participants to excel in every facet of their lives by offering ways to enrich their physical, emotional, social, and financial well-being — even the well-being of the planet. Those five holistic pillars are the foundation for program activities aimed at promoting health, resiliency, teamwork, security and safety. Designed to be relevant both internationally and locally, the program closely supports the company’s health and safety culture and celebrates the many different ways to be well around the world. In addition to empowering employees and their families to be their best, Well-Being at AECOM has increased productivity and retention, lowered health care costs and resulted in more creativity and innovation at AECOM.

American Airlines At American, the team flies over borders and walls and transports people to some of the most important moments in their lives. But American is greater than just creating connections or flying planes. Together, the team cares for all people on life’s journey. For team members, that means, among other things, providing benefits and programs that help them and their families be their best selves, including a weight management program that teaches healthy eating behaviors, access to health coaching, activity challenges and a well-being rewards program. American offers an employee assistance program (EAP) that provides free and confidential on-site and telephonic counseling, as well as access to community providers and online tools for addressing legal and financial concerns, managing stress, improving relationships and coping with emotional or substance abuse issues. American is committed to improving overall health and well-being so team members can lead productive, happy lives.

American Express has its customers’ backs. This begins by supporting company colleagues who serve them. The goal is to build a culture of health through leadership, policies and within the workplace. Better health for the workforce and their families ensures that colleagues can bring their whole selves to work. To champion colleagues and their families at every stage of their life, American Express continually thinks of innovative ways to invest in their overall well-being. This includes providing everyday resources that support their physical, financial and emotional health.

Believing a healthier America starts with each individual, Aramark is committed to empowering employees, customers and communities to lead healthier lifestyles. Pivotal to this commitment is its groundbreaking Healthy for Life 20 by 20 initiative with the American Heart Association. Moreover, the company’s national Feed Your Potential 365 digital campaign encourages everyone to discover how they can be their best every day by choosing healthy food. Aramark provides employee programs that recognize the role nutrition and healthy eating play and encourages a holistic approach that includes resources to strengthen physical, emotional, social and financial well-being. Offerings include challenges; fitness centers; screenings; flu vaccinations; health assessments; online coaching and tools; a smoking cessation program; EAP; nutrition, obesity and fitness counseling; financial webinars; wellness fairs; and regular communications. By expanding its already robust employee health and well-being programs, Aramark is enabling employees and their families to live healthier lives.

AT&T’s values represent a company inspiring progress through the power of communication and entertainment. Its values – Live True, Think Big, Pursue Excellence, Inspire Imagination, Be There, Stand for Equality, Embrace Freedom and Make a Difference – mean helping employees achieve and maintain holistic well-being. Now in its 10th year, Your Health Matters continues to innovate. Highlights for 2018: Family Planning benefits – new fertility benefits and surrogacy policy, and updated paternal leave and adoption policies; Castlight launch – rolled out digital navigator to help employees manage well-being in one place; expanded on-site offerings to include flu shot clinics at company locations; AT&T Believes – launched company-wide initiative to tackle social issues in communities; It Can Wait – Don’t Text & Drive campaign turns 10 this year with over 29 million pledges to drive distraction free; Diversity – AT&T celebrates diversity and equality. DiversityInc. named AT&T #1 in Diversity in 2019 Top 50 Companies for Diversity.

BHGE’s mission is to invent smarter ways to bring energy to the world, and the company’s people are one of BHGE’s most valued assets. BHGE believes safeguarding and improving the health and well-being of the workforce is in the best interest of BHGE and companies across the industry. Through a commitment to a culture of health, the company strives to create an environment that promotes the importance of well-being and encourages all employees to be leaders in their own health, while at work, at home and in the community. The company creates this environment by the commitment of its leadership, from line to senior management; diverse benefit offerings; and by implementing evidence-based practices, policies and innovative engagement opportunities. Expanding beyond traditional thinking of protecting employees, the company motivates employees to be proactive about prevention, risk mitigation and awareness, emphasizing the importance of family and community involvement.

BD is a global medical technology company that is advancing the world of health by improving medical discovery, diagnostics and the delivery of care. BD brings that commitment to home – to its associates and their families – through its award-winning global well-being program, BD Healthy Lives. The BD Healthy Lives program provides associates with information, tools, one-on-one support, and resources to help them make better everyday choices, develop healthier habits and achieve overall well-being. The company’s multi-year wellness strategy is designed to drive intrinsic motivation and positive behavior change, aligned with the following key business objectives: Improving the overall well-being of associates and family members, and focusing on the power of prevention through education, incentives and key programs designed to support associates in different areas, such as nutrition, physical activity, stress management, tobacco cessation, financial well-being, social well-being, chronic condition management, and more.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Alabama’s BeWell program promotes emotional, financial, physical and social wellness. Healthy Action Program, a component of BeWell, provides incentives for completing a preventive screening, tobacco cessation program, online health activities, a meQuilbrium® assessment and skill or activity, or a clinician care management program call. Additional rewards are given for completing a wellness visit, step challenges, health assessment, and an online weight loss program or ScaleBack Alabama/Healthy BMI challenge. Financial and emotional wellness educational seminars include retirement planning, 401(k) basics, suicide awareness and the importance of sleep and resiliency. Its EAP program offers a phone app, text therapy and health coaching for lifestyle/stress management, tobacco cessation, healthy eating and fitness management. Social connectedness is also an important part of the company’s culture, evidenced by baseball family night, community volunteerism and the Birmingham Corporate Challenge.

Through BNY Mellon’s global well-being program, IN, the company is creating and sustaining a culture of well-being to improve the health of its employees. IN provides a variety of resources and programs delivered by industry-leading well-being vendors to help employees take simple steps to improve and maintain their physical health, emotional resilience, financial security and social connections. By offering a wide range of tools, information and professional guidance, IN meets participants where they are in their well-being journey and assists them in achieving their personal goals.

Cerner’s health information technologies connect people and systems at more than 27,500 contracted provider facilities worldwide. Together with our clients, we are creating a future where the health care system works to improve the well-being of individuals and communities. Healthe at Cerner is Cerner’s internal brand for health and well-being. Healthe at Cerner’s holistic programs and services empower associates and their families to obtain their optimal level of health. The programs and services span the continuum of well-being, emphasizing the mental, physical, financial and social components. Our strategy is based on three pillars: consumer engaged benefits; innovative programs, of which Healthe Living with Rewards and health coaching are key components; and high-value services, including four health clinics, four pharmacies, four fitness centers, five cafeterias and an internal Third-Party Administrator. These wellness initiatives are connected by the Cerner Health identity and powered by a solution set for consumers and providers.

Cigna, is more than a health insurance company. It’s a global health services company. Cigna’s mission is to help improve the health, well-being and peace of mind of all the people touched by the company. Cigna achieves this by working with employers and organizations worldwide, helping employees stay healthy and on the job. Cigna’s workforce receives the same focus through programs to advance each individual’s journey to better health, with personalization and affordability in mind. Cigna’s enterprise well-being strategy promotes a supportive work environment, connects people to total health and well-being solutions and drives personal engagement and accountability for healthy choices. The goal is to inspire employees to bring their best selves to work each day.
Cleveland Clinic

Cleveland Clinic caregivers share the same core mission: to care for patients with the goal of zero preventable harm, and to care for each other. For patients who come to Cleveland Clinic, the team strives to provide safe, world-class care at every encounter. If something is not right, all caregivers are encouraged to speak up and stop the line. The same is true when fellow caregivers have the potential to be harmed. All caregivers have the power to help, heal and change lives — beginning with their own. That is the power of the Cleveland Clinic team. It stresses the importance of valuing, nurturing and encouraging people to achieve their best in the workplace. Cleveland Clinic takes care of its caregivers and encourages them toward new heights of personal and professional satisfaction. In return, our caregivers make Cleveland Clinic stronger.

CNO Financial Group

CNO Financial Group is middle-income America’s valued financial security partner. The company provides health and life insurance as well as retirement solutions through its family of insurance brands: Bankers Life, Colonial Penn and Washington National. As CNO Financial helps its customers enjoy a healthy and secure financial future, CNO also commits to the well-being of its associates. By investing in the health of associates, CNO is also making an investment in the company. This investment leads to improved engagement, productivity and customer service. CNO’s corporate well-being programs equip associates and their families with resources and incentives that can be tailored to meet their individual needs. Resources include on-site clinics; free fitness centers and fitness classes; walking workstations; acupuncture, chiropractic and massage therapy; health coaching; lifestyle management programs; mindfulness and meditation programs; and financial wellness programs and ergonomics.

Compass Group

As the nation’s leading foodservice and support services company, Compass Group North America is a family of companies building experiences for all customers. Compass Group serves award-winning restaurants, corporate cafes, hospitals, schools, arenas, museums, and more. Compass Group North America has over 268,000 associates and earned $18.6 billion in revenues in 2018. The company’s total rewards package promotes healthy lifestyles for associates and their families. In addition to offering a choice of benefit options, the award-winning wellness programs provide options to help sustain more active and balanced lifestyles through behavioral coaching, transparency tools, financial management programs and much more. In addition to robust wellness incentives, Compass Group provides associates with paid time off from work for preventive care.
CVS Health is the nation’s premier health innovation company helping people on their path to better health. CVS Health is pioneering a bold new approach to total health by making quality care more affordable, accessible, simple and seamless. We offer our colleagues a comprehensive suite of low- or no-cost wellness programs, including health screenings, smoking-cessation, weight-management, an EAP, free flu shots, comprehensive maternity support, financial well-being tools, and health care cost-quality transparency tools. As a CVS Health company, Aetna is also changing the conversation about what it means to be healthy by acknowledging several factors that contribute to holistic well-being. Its nationally recognized employee well-being program focuses on six dimensions: physical health, emotional health, financial security, social connectedness, purpose, and character strengths. By understanding these drivers, the company can provide employees with innovative and engaging resources to personalize their paths to well-being.

DaVita Inc., a Fortune 500® company, employs more than 75,000 employees worldwide. DaVita Kidney Care is a leading provider of kidney care in the United States, delivering dialysis services to patients with chronic kidney failure and end-stage renal disease. DaVita cares for its employees with the same intensity shown to its patients. In 2010, Village Vitality, the company’s well-being program, was formed to support teammates and their families achieve a sense of well-being in every aspect of their lives. Village Vitality includes four elements—physical, financial, social and emotional well-being. Through this program and with the support of leadership, DaVita Inc. is helping to create a culture of health throughout the organization and community.

Dell Technologies has a shared cultural framework that defines how the team works together and reflects the best parts of the company and is committed to giving team members the support they need to not only fulfill their potential but to continue to expand and grow. Providing work/life flexibility and balance through highly valued and meaningful benefits is at the core of Well at Dell, the company’s health and wellness program. Through this program, Dell provides comprehensive benefit packages, best-in-class care solutions and key wellness programs focused on physical, emotional and financial health. The company’s goal is to ensure that all team members and their families have access to innovative and personalized solutions to help them make the best wellness decisions for their needs. The programs and resources are actively supported and aligned to our People Philosophy and commitment to be a place where team members can be their best and do their best work.
The “Delta Difference” is the people who work at the company. Delta has a strong, unique culture based on core values that uphold the conviction that people are the company’s most important asset. The Flight Plan (organizational business plan) includes Delta’s most valued goals, including the philosophy to “invest in a culture of wellness.” This demonstrates the strong leadership support and deep desire to see all employees, their families and communities thrive and be well. The company puts this principle into action through many organized programs, as well as grassroots efforts initiated by Delta’s wellness network and employees focused on building a healthier population. The health and well-being team strives to reach all 80,000 global employees via Delta’s well-being initiatives to provide tools and education to impact their health in a positive way. The well-being team emulates the company’s brand promise — “No one better connects the world” by creating a workforce that thrives.

Earning a Best Employers for Healthy Lifestyles award is a testament to Erie Insurance’s employees and their families and their commitment to living healthier lives. At Erie Insurance, the team works year-round to help employees develop and maintain healthy lifestyles by striving to better understand how to use available resources and evaluate how to use them more effectively. Dedicated wellness representatives and voluntary health education programs online are two ways the company reaches out to employees. Employees also have access to resources like gym membership discounts, nutrition counseling, adoption and fertility assistance, confidential personalized assistance and counseling, and even ergonomic workspace evaluations.

As one of the nation’s largest health service organizations, Geisinger serves more than 3 million residents throughout Pennsylvania and in New Jersey at AtlantiCare, a Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award recipient. The physician-led system is comprised of approximately 30,000 employees, including nearly 1,600 employed physicians, 13 hospital campuses, two research centers, Geisinger Commonwealth School of Medicine, and a 582,000-member health plan, all of which leverage an estimated $12.7 billion positive impact on the Pennsylvania and New Jersey economies. Geisinger has repeatedly garnered national accolades for integration, quality and service. In addition to fulfilling its patient care mission, Geisinger has a long-standing commitment to medical education, research and community service.

Georgia Power has a long-standing commitment to the health and well-being of its employees and their families. The company’s emphasis on well-being evolved from a program focused on physical health to a total well-being approach, encompassing individual well-being goals and creating a supportive environment where employees can thrive. In addition to a comprehensive benefits plan, many engaging tools and resources are offered. Four key areas include (Focus, Fuel, Move, Recover) covering physical, mental and emotional, financial and social well-being. Examples include on-site clinics, screenings, fitness facilities, workspaces that encourage standing, social connections, specialty vendor partners related to sleep health, functional movement, telemedicine and teletherapy, rewards, financial seminars, tools, and health-related challenges. Leaders, along with grassroots well-being champions, communicate, educate and engage employees while striving to maintain a safe and supportive workplace that is diverse, inclusive and caring.

At Goldman Sachs, people are their most important assets, which allows them to serve clients at the highest level. Goldman Sachs takes pride in providing employees with one of the most competitive and innovative wellness programs in the industry. Goldman Sachs supports a broad range of health, resilience and work-life needs, and consistently evaluates their offerings to ensure that they best serve their people. In the past year, expanded offerings included: increasing regional access to on-site health services by opening an additional health center and adding a new EAP provider; launching a third-party online resilience platform available to all employees globally; and increasing parenting support with a training designed to equip managers with information to effectively support all new parents during their leave and launching a global breast milk shipping program.
Health Care Service Corporation (HCSC), which operates health plans in Illinois, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, is committed to promoting a healthy workplace culture. Aligning its wellness strategy to its purpose, “To do everything in our power to stand with our members in sickness and in health,” HCSC reinforces that commitment. Motiva, HCSC’s internally branded employee wellness team, engages employees in total well-being with topics above and beyond most wellness programs, emphasizing that there is more to a healthy person than just numbers on a scale. Employees are encouraged to move naturally, rest, find purpose, reduce stress, be positive and connect with one another – staying healthy and living a healthy lifestyle. More than 150 Health and Well-being Champions bring positive messages to life in each office with celebrations, well-being summits, health fairs, employee walks, biometric screenings, wellness engagement initiatives, community service projects and more.

Humana

Humana’s Bold Goal is a strategy to improve the health of the communities the company serves 20% by 2020 and beyond. The Bold Goal has further energized Humana’s strong commitment to its associates, putting well-being at the heart of the culture and delivering simple, integrated experiences based on four holistic dimensions of well-being: Health – having the physical, emotional and spiritual energy and desire to thrive every day; Security – feeling safe and protected, including financially; Belonging – personal relationships and connections within communities; and Purpose – inspiration guiding associates to meaningful activities that bring joy, including job satisfaction. Humana’s well-being movement is advanced by associates, strongly connected to a shared purpose, and championed by leaders with specific goals and measures that are meaningful at the individual, team, and company-wide levels. This approach allows everyone within the company to live what matters to each individual, every day.

Huntington

Huntington is committed to looking out for its team, with the purpose of making people’s lives better, helping businesses thrive, and strengthening the communities Huntington serves. One of the many ways we look out for our colleagues is by supporting their health and well-being. The best-in-class Huntington Total Health wellness program provides both on- and off-site wellness programming to colleagues in virtual and face-to-face formats. Huntington’s goal is to encourage colleagues to live their best lives at home, at work, and everywhere in between. With 16,000 colleagues primarily operating in seven states, Huntington Total Health provides something for everyone.

As a company, Merck has been and always will be inventing, it does so for the single greatest purpose: Life. Merck is on a quest to cure and to have an impact on countless people’s lives worldwide. Living this mission starts by caring for employees, their families, and communities. This is important in order to achieve the company vision of “Being the world’s premier, research-intensive biopharmaceutical company”. Because Merck is in the business of promoting optimal health, the company must lead by example. LIVE IT is a holistic approach to well-being designed by and for employees and their families to be healthier and more productive, both professionally and personally. LIVE IT includes four components: preventive services within PREVENT IT; emotional, mental and financial health within BALANCE IT; physical activity/movement within MOVE IT; and nutrition within FUEL IT. At Merck, the company is not just Inventing for Life, the company is living it.

Mercy, named one of the top five large U.S. health systems in 2019, 2018, 2017 and 2016 by IBM Watson Health, serves millions annually. Mercy includes more than 40 acute care, managed and specialty (heart, children’s, orthopedic and rehab) hospitals, 900 physician practices and outpatient facilities, 45,000 co-workers and 2,400 Mercy Clinic physicians in Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. Mercy also has clinics, outpatient services and outreach ministries in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Mercy’s Healthification movement is an evidenced-based wellness initiative. Strategies integrate health and wellness resources with disease management, care coordination and EAP. Together, these resources offer co-workers a full complement of services to best manage healthy lives — both physically and emotionally. Healthification gives Mercy co-workers strategic resources to make positive, sustainable changes in personal well-being, empowering them to lower their risk of chronic disease and improve health behaviors while lowering the trajectory of medical care spending.
Nielsen is a leading global provider of information and insights for consumers and markets worldwide. As a global employer, it influences the well-being of its 46,000 associates and their families. Comprised of three areas – employee health, wellness and fitness – the Nemours YOURHealth and Well-Being program is a holistic approach to support a variety of needs associates may have on their journey to achieving optimal health, including physical, emotional and social well-being. Programming and support for YOURHealth includes a comprehensive wellness portal, activity challenges, coaching, weight control, stress management and lifestyle medicine programs, CBT-I sleep therapy, meditation and free biometric screenings. Over the last few years, the health system’s data has shown health risk improvement in several categories. Nemours’ goal, as a team, is to communicate to Associates that it’s not all about earning points, but about health, prevention and early detection. Nemours is a uniquely special place, and Associate engagement is key to Nemours’ True North goals. Nemours focuses on building a culture of health and wellness by utilizing internal communications, monthly management meetings and leadership forums to promote employee well-being.

Nestlé’s purpose is to enhance quality of life and contribute to a healthier future. The company invests in making a positive impact on the lives of individuals and families (including pets), communities and the planet. Nowhere is this more important than with Nestlé’s employees. That is why Nestlé offers employees and their families a Total Rewards package that reinforces this mission, including a full suite of competitive benefits and innovative programs that encourage physical, emotional, social and financial well-being. The medical plan offers a high-deductible health plan with a competitive employer contribution, as well as an in-network and a broad network preferred provider organization (PPO). All eligible employees and spouses/domestic partners may participate in healthy activities such as a health survey and health screening. These activities identify health risks, which can then be addressed through innovative programs to help employees reduce their risk.
